PART 1: GUIDANCE

GUIDANCE

Statutory Guidance on the Duty on Local Authorities to Promote the Educational Achievement of Looked After Children

Looked After Children have a right to expect the outcomes we want for every child – that they should be healthy, stay safe, enjoy and achieve, make a positive contribution to society and achieve economic well-being. To achieve these five outcomes for Looked After Children, local authorities as their ‘corporate parents’ should demonstrate the strongest commitment to helping every child they look after, wherever the child is placed, to achieve the highest educational standards he or she possibly can. This includes supporting their aspirations to achieve in further and higher education.

Though some do well, the educational achievement of Looked After Children as a group remains unacceptably low, which is why the Children Act 2004 places a duty on local authorities to promote the educational achievement of Looked After Children (“the duty”).

Under Section 22(3)(a) of the Children Act 2004, the duty of a local authority to safeguard and promote the welfare of a Child Looked After by them includes, in particular, a duty to promote the child’s educational achievement. The authority must therefore give particular attention to the educational implications of any decision about the welfare of those children. The duty came into force on 1 July 2005 and applies to all Children Looked After by an authority, wherever they are placed.

FINDING A NEW SCHOOL PLACE

At a glance guide for social workers with corporate parent responsibilities for children and young people in care

At what age do children start school?

Children reaching the age of five between 1 September and the 31 August are admitted to reception year in September.

What are the advantages of starting school early?

Research indicates that attending nursery prior to full-time school gives children a head start in literacy, numeracy, social skills and confidence. Applications to nursery schools and classes should be made when the child is two years of age. Depending on the availability of places, children may start nursery from the age of three. Places may be part time or full time.

How do you get a child into primary school?

All applications are dealt with by the local authority. Application forms can be obtained from the local authority's School Admission Team, and must also be returned to School Admissions for processing. The application form you need will depend on the age of the child, but School Admissions will be able to advise. All state schools must give top priority for admission to children in care. School Admissions will notify the outcome of the application, normally within five school days.

What happens if there are no places at the school of your choice?

You will be notified that a place has been refused and the how to appeal against that decision. Your child will be placed on the waiting list, but you need to consider alternatives. School Admissions will be able to advise you of alternative schools with vacancies.

What do I do if we move?

Contact the School Admission Service of the local education authority for a list of local schools with spaces in your child's year group. Visit schools with vacancies that you are interested in during school hours. Ask questions about the special educational needs policy, behaviour policy, homework load, pastoral support and academic support. Find out the name of the designated teacher for children in care. Complete an application form and ask School Admissions when your child will be admitted.

The Pupil Admissions Team in Tower Hamlets can provide help and information:

Additional Notes on Starting and Finishing School

- Parents can defer their child's admission to reception until later in the school year, as long as the place is taken up before the end of the school year
- Parents have a right to state a preference for the school they would like their child to attend. They can apply to any school they wish, but if there are more applications than places available, there is no guarantee that a place will be offered. When a school is over-subscribed, the admission policy is used to decide who has priority for a place

Parents have a legal responsibility to ensure that their children attend school if they are on the roll of a school.

- The only school leaving date is in the summer term of year 11; the academic year that pupils reach the age of 16. The official school leaving date is the last Friday in June
- There is no such thing as an 'Easter leaver'
- There is no truth in the popularly held beliefs that young people can leave school on their sixteenth birthday or when they receive their National Insurance Number from the Department for Social Security (DSS) or if they have been permanently excluded.

EXCLUSIONS

At a glance guide for social workers with corporate parent responsibilities for children and young people looked after.

Who can exclude a child from school?

The Headteacher has the power to exclude a pupil from school. If the Headteacher is absent from school, the power rests with the most senior teacher in the school.

When is a pupil given a fixed term exclusion?

These decisions should not be decided in the heat of the moment. Unless there is an immediate risk to safety, they should only be taken:

- in response to serious breaches of a school's discipline policy
- if allowing the pupil to remain in school would seriously harm the education or welfare of the pupil or others in the school.

How long is a fixed term exclusion?

No more than 45 school days in any one academic year (September to the end of the following summer term).

What is a Pupil Discipline Committee?

A Pupil Discipline Committee is established by the Governing Body of the school to consider all fixed term exclusions and all permanent exclusions. It consists of a minimum of three governors. It listens to presentations from the school, parents, pupils and the local authority. There are procedures for the Discipline Committee to follow and rules governing when they must meet to consider the different types and lengths of exclusions i.e. Pupil Discipline Committees must meet within 15 days of a permanent exclusion. Parents have the right of appeal against the decision to exclude a pupil permanently. Appeals are heard by an independent panel.

When is a pupil permanently excluded from school?

A permanent exclusion is 'a final step' in the process for dealing with disciplinary offences when a wide range of strategies have been tried and failed, including the use of a Pastoral Support Programme. It is only in exceptional circumstances that a Headteacher would exclude a pupil permanently for a one off or first offence.

Who is responsible for the pupil's education during the exclusion?

If the exclusions total more than 15 days in any school year, the school must:

- plan for the pupil's future education
- use the time to address the pupil's problems
- consult the local authority and make arrangements for the pupil to return to school successfully.

During the period of a fixed term exclusion, the school must set and mark work for the pupil to undertake at home for the first five days of the exclusion, and arrange for an alternative education, usually at the Tower Hamlets Pupil Referral Unit (PRU) from the sixth day of the exclusion until the pupil returns back to school. If the exclusion is permanent, the local authority must arrange alternative education from the sixth day of the exclusion. Tower Hamlets arranges provision for looked after children in its schools from the first day of the exclusion.

What can I do to help?

You can help by being aware of the procedures associated with exclusion and making sure that your child has the least disrupted experience during this difficult time. You need to support your child by considering the best ways in which they may be returned to education without delay. Parents, foster carers, teachers and social workers have an essential role to play in ensuring continuity for all children looked after. For these children, continuity at school is essential given that their arrangements at home may be disrupted from time to time. Exclusion is the last disciplinary action that should be taken. It should rarely occur without considerable forewarning and alternative strategies having been exhausted. These should involve support from all the services in the authority (the corporate parent) and be initiated through multi-disciplinary meetings.

In the case of considering permanently excluding a pupil looked after, Tower Hamlets' guidance asks Heads to discuss the matter with the local authority's Exclusions Officer and to explore other measures. If possible, the designated teacher should call a multi-disciplinary meeting, involving the social worker, parent and senior pastoral staff at the school. Alternatives to permanent exclusion could include:

- fixed term exclusion followed by referral to the PRU;
- fixed term exclusion followed by reduced timetable with support from the Learning Support Unit (LSU);
- fixed term exclusion followed by urgent progression of a statement, for example

What shall I do first?

It is important to act quickly when you know that your child is having difficulty at school, and to agree with the school how support can be provided. As soon as you are aware that your child's behaviour is causing concern at school:

- ensure a Pastoral Support Programme is in place and you are clear about the part you are expected to play in this
- attend any meeting required to arrange support.

Decisions on exclusions can be made within hours of an event. If your child has been excluded, contact the school without delay and:

- ask the designated teacher to call an emergency multi-disciplinary meeting to discuss the matter, pending the meeting of the Pupil Discipline Committee
- contact the Parents Advice Centre for information and support. Staff can help you to prepare your case for the meeting of the Pupil Discipline Committee and, if necessary, the grounds for your appeal
- make clear your intention to appeal against the decision should the Pupil Discipline Committee uphold the decision on permanent exclusion

In the case of a fixed term exclusion exceeding 15 days:

- discuss a reduction in the length of the exclusion at the meeting of the Pupil Discipline Committee
- make sure the you pick up and return work to the school for marking, and that your child completes it
- find out from the school what arrangements they have made for an alternative education

SCHOOL GOVERNORS

Responsibilities of the School Governing Body for Looked After Children and Young People.

The appointment of a designated teacher in accordance with the regulations is a core function of the governing body. This section sets out what the school governing body collectively will need to do in order to fulfil its duty under section 20 of the 2008 Act and the associated regulations. The way in which the role of the designated teacher will be carried out will vary from school to school. For example, it will depend on the number of looked after children on roll and their individual needs as well as, for example, whether the school caters for primary or secondary age children. If, a secondary school had a significant number of looked after children on roll the governing body may decide to designate more than one qualified teacher, perhaps with one responsible for pre-16 and a second for post-16 pupils.

Schools are undergoing significant changes as they respond to the needs of 21 Century learners. In line with the workforce agreement, they have been remodelling themselves in ways that mean that not all aspects of the job of the designated teacher necessarily need be carried out by a single individual or by a qualified teacher. Whilst lead responsibility for raising attainment of Looked After Children on roll must rest with a qualified teacher, schools will need to decide how functions within it, including pastoral and administrative tasks, are most appropriately delegated to suit their own circumstances.

The designated teacher should be given the appropriate level of support in order to fulfil their role. Some schools may never have had a looked after child on roll and the designated teacher may not, therefore, be familiar with some of the issues and processes they need to know about.

The governing body should, in partnership with the headteacher, ensure that through their training and development, the designated teacher has the opportunity to acquire and keep up-to-date the necessary skills, knowledge and training to understand and respond to the specific teaching and learning needs of looked after children.

Governing bodies and the school leadership team should also make sure that the designated teacher role contributes to the deeper understanding of everyone in the school who is likely to be involved in supporting looked after children to achieve.

The governing body should ensure that the designated teacher is a member of the teaching staff with appropriate seniority, professional experience and the status to provide leadership, training, information and advice to others that will influence decisions about the teaching and learning needs of looked after children. Where the designated teacher is not a member of the senior leadership team, a member of the team should be designated as a champion of looked after children issues to work closely with the designated teacher.

The governing body, in partnership with the headteacher, is responsible for monitoring how well the role is working. The governing body is not responsible for the performance management of the person undertaking it, unless of course the designated teacher is the head or acting head.

Indicators which demonstrate that the role is being implemented efficiently and is making a real difference include ensuring that:

- the school has a clear overview of the educational needs and progress of looked after children on roll
- the school's policies are effective in reflecting the needs of looked after children
- resources are allocated to support the designated teacher to carry out this role effectively for the benefit of looked after children.

As part of the arrangements for monitoring the effectiveness of the role, governing bodies should, as a minimum, receive an annual report from the designated teacher. To protect a child's need for confidentiality, it is important to ensure that the report does not mention individual children by name. However, the report should enable the governing body to make overall judgements about the designated teacher role in the context of wider school planning in relation to:

- any workload issues arising as a result of the number of looked after children on roll at the school and the number of local authorities which are involved
- levels of progress (i.e. educational, social and emotional progress) made by looked after children who are currently or have been on roll within the past twelve months in relation to all children at the school
- whether the pattern of attendance and exclusions for looked after children is different to that of all children

- any process or planning issues arising from personal education plans (PEPs)
- whether any looked after children are identified as gifted and talented and how those needs are being met
- whether any looked after children have special educational needs (SEN) and whether those needs are being met through statements or School Action or School Action Plus

The governing body and school leadership team should then consider what picture this information is providing and what needs to be done to address any issues raised by reports in relation to:

- whether the designated teacher has sufficient time and resources to carry out their role effectively
- any training, support and development needs required to ensure the role can be carried out effectively
- the extent to which school policies take account of the particular needs of looked after children
- whether the school is making the fullest possible use of all available resources, such as one-to-one tuition, in order to provide the maximum opportunity for looked after children to achieve two levels of progress within a Key Stage

In addition to considering and acting on an annual report, school governing bodies should make sure that there are arrangements in place to keep themselves informed about provision for, and attainment of, looked after children on the school's roll on a more regular basis.

SPECIAL EDUCATIONAL NEEDS

How do I know if a child has Special Educational Needs (SEN)?

The law says that a child has Special Educational Needs if he or she has learning difficulties and needs special help. This help is known as special educational provision.

A child has learning difficulties if he or she finds it much harder to learn than most children of the same age, or if he or she has a disability, which makes it difficult to use the normal educational facilities in the area.

For example, a child may have learning difficulties caused by:

- A physical disability
- A problem with sight, hearing or speech
- Behavioural, emotional or social problems
- A medical or health condition
- Difficulties with using and understanding language.

A child may have more general difficulties with school work. As a social worker or carer you may notice these problems yourself or your child's teacher at school may notice them.

What do I do next?

Contact the school and discuss your concerns with an appropriate member of staff – this may be your child's form tutor or Special Educational Needs Co-ordinator or it could be the Designated Teacher who has responsibility for Children and Young People in Public Care. All schools can provide special help for children with special educational needs and may provide help in different ways but they must have regard to the SEN Code of Practice on the Identification and Assessment of Special Educational Needs. The Code gives guidance to schools and recommends that schools deal with children's needs using a graduated approach, matching the level of help to the needs of the child and also that they keep a register of children who have Special Educational Needs.

What is the graduated approach?

Schools place great emphasis on identifying special educational needs early so that they can help children as quickly as possible. Once it has been decided that the child has Special Educational Needs, the child's teachers should take account of the guidance in the Special Educational Needs Code of Practice. This includes giving information about the local Parents Advice Centre. The graduated approach recognises that children learn in different ways and can have different kinds or levels of Special Educational Needs.

The school must tell you when they first start giving extra or different help for your child because your child has special educational needs. The extra or different help could be a different way of teaching certain things, some help from an extra adult, perhaps in a small group, or use of particular equipment like a computer or a desk with a sloping top.

In early education settings this help is called Early Years Action and in schools this is called School Action.

Your child might need help through the graduated approach for only a short time or for many years, perhaps even for the whole of their education.

You should be consulted at each step.

Different schools will take account of the Code of Practice in different ways. However, no matter how the school chooses to take account of the Code, if your child has SEN, you should be consulted at each step. The school will also consider your child's own views. Schools should tell parents about their children's progress. You have a right to see the school's SEN policy and to receive a copy of the school's annual report, which will include a report on that policy.

Your child's teacher is responsible for working with your child on a day-to-day basis but may decide to write down the actions or help for your child in an Individual Education Plan (IEP).

The IEP should say:

- What special help is being given
- How often your child will receive the help
- Who will provide the help
- What the targets for your child are
- How and when your child's progress will be checked
- What help you can give your child at home

Your child's teacher should discuss the IEP with you and your child if possible.

IEPs will usually be linked to the main areas of language, literacy, mathematics and behaviour and social skills. Sometimes the school or early education setting will not write an IEP but will record how they are meeting your child's needs in a different way, perhaps as part of the lesson plans, and will record your child's progress in the same way as they do for all the other children. But the school should always be able to tell you how they are helping your child and what progress they are making, and explain why they have not written an IEP.

If your child does not make enough progress, the teacher or the SENCO should then talk to you about asking for advice from other people outside the school. They might want to ask for help from, for example, a specialist teacher, an educational psychologist, a speech and language therapist or other health professionals. This kind of help is called Early Years Action Plus or School Action Plus.

The SENCO should try to include you in any discussions, and should consider your views in making any decisions about how best to help your child. They should keep you informed about your child's progress.

The Special Educational Needs Code of Practice is very clear about the importance of early education settings, schools, LAs and parents working together. Parents should have plenty of opportunities to find out what is happening.

Your views are very important at all times.

Talking through any worries or concerns you might have with the people at the early education setting, the class teacher, the SENCO or the headteacher should sort out any concerns or misunderstandings.

If your child still does not seem to be making enough progress or needs a lot more extra help, the LA may decide to carry out a more detailed assessment of your child's needs.

Your child's school or early education setting can ask the LA to carry out a statutory assessment. They should always talk to you before asking the LA.

Or

If you feel that your child's school or early education setting cannot provide all the extra help that your child needs, or your child is not making enough progress and so is falling further behind other children of the same age, you can ask the LA to carry out a statutory assessment.

You should always talk to your child's teachers or the SENCO before asking the LA. You can always ask them to help you write to the LA, or you can ask the local parent partnership service or a voluntary agency for help.

What is a Statutory Assessment?

This is a detailed investigation to find out exactly what your child's special educational needs are and what special help your child needs. A statutory assessment is only necessary if the school or early education setting cannot provide all the help that your child needs.

When you, the early education setting or the school ask the LA to carry out a statutory assessment, the LA normally has six weeks to decide whether to do so. They will consider very carefully your child's progress at school and the guidance in the Special Educational Needs Code of Practice. They will also listen to your views and to the views of your child's school about your child's special educational needs. The school or early education setting will tell the LA about any special help they have already given to your child.

Remember – your local parent partnership service is there to help you at any point.

What resources are available for children with statements?

There is a range of provision available for children with statements. They may include extra support in the form of access to help from a learning support assistant, advice and support from speech and language therapists, specialist teachers, physiotherapists, occupational therapists and medical professionals. Resources may include special arrangements such as special equipment. A very small number of children may be educated in special schools, either day or residential.

Where can I get more advice?

The SENCO or the Designated Teacher for Children and Young People in Public Care will give details of the pupil's situation. Information and advice about statutory assessment can be sought from the Special Educational Needs Section at Mulberry Place 020 7364 4430. Another source of advice is the Parents Advice Centre on 020 7364 6489.

What if a child is too young for school?

There are many services that may be able to help. These include: peripatetic teachers for hearing and visually impaired children who will visit the child at home, home based learning schemes e.g. Portage, playgroups and nurseries. Additional information can be obtained from the Children's Information Service 020 7364 6495.

What if I disagree with the school?

If you are not happy with anything the school does when dealing with your child, you should first talk to the SENCO, child's form tutor or subject teachers. You may also talk to the Headteacher. You may also find it helpful to discuss your worries with someone from the Parents Advice Centre or other voluntary organisations. The school's policy on Special Educational Needs will describe how they will deal with complaints.

If you are still not happy after using the school's complaints procedures, and if your child's school is an LA maintained school, you should contact the LA. If you are still not happy you can complain to the Secretary of State for Education.

What if the child is being looked after or is in the care of Tower Hamlets Social Services Department and attends a school out of the Borough?

Tower Hamlets will fund the required provision - this may be the by SEN, Social Care, Health or a combination of these. Decisions regarding placement of children in residential provision are made by the Joint Commissioning Panel which meets once a month. The panel comprises senior managers from Education, Social Care and Health, and referrals to the Panel are made by professionals from any one of the three agencies.

WHAT IS A PERSONAL EDUCATION PLAN (PEP)?

A PEP is a tool that is used to support joint planning between social services and education, and is discussed and reviewed at Personal Education Plan meetings.

The plans are recorded on forms designed by the borough according to government guidance - PEP 1, PEP 2 (the form used to record the meeting), PEP 3 and PEP 4

Children aged three to five will have their PEP recorded on a different form (Early Years PEP form) and social workers are responsible for coordinating the PEP.

When Should a PEP Meeting Take Place?

All looked after children aged three to sixteen need PEP meetings; the first should be held within 20 days of a pupil becoming looked after or when starting at a new school.

The PEP should be reviewed every six months. Where possible these reviews should run concurrently with statutory reviews for looked after children (although not necessarily on the same day) and should, when a child has a statement of SEN, be linked to the annual review of the statement

Information from the PEP must be available at the first statutory review of the child's care plan and the IRO should ensure that any decisions are implemented.

Who Should the Social Worker Invite to the Meeting?

It is important to always invite: the child/young person, the parents (if this is consistent with the Care Plan), the carers or residential key worker, the designated teacher or another teacher who knows the pupil well.

In some instances, it may be useful to invite other people concerned with the pupil's education – e.g. Educational Psychologist or Teaching Assistants, or a member of the Virtual School for the Looked After Children (LAC) Team

What information should be shared at the PEP?

School staff complete PEP 1 prior to the meeting, and primarily provide of information about recent attendance, National Curriculum attainment, extra curricular achievements and strengths and weaknesses of the child/young person's learning. Previous educational targets should be reviewed and new ones set at the meeting.

The social worker should complete the PEP 3 form prior to the meeting

The views of the child/young person should be included in the relevant section of the PEP4 form and completed with the help of an adult prior to the meeting

Parent/carers' views on how the child/young person is progressing at school; up to date essential information for schools such as appropriate contact numbers etc should be taken at the meeting and included in PEP 2.

Who is responsible for setting educational targets?

Teachers and school staff should take a lead on reviewing previous educational targets and setting measurable new ones, and educational targets should be set as a result of issues raised and discussed at the meeting.

Suggested agenda for PEP meetings

Working through this agenda should ensure all major points are covered:

- identify Chair (usually the social worker)
- identify the person who will record discussions and decisions on forms (this should not be the chair)
- state the purpose of the meeting: To share information about the pupil's education, air opinions and concerns, identify areas of strength and weakness, set appropriate objectives.
- introductions
- consider PEP 4 – pupil's opinions are shared and discussed
- consider views of the carer - on progress at school and at home
- consider PEP 1: (has information been provided regarding attendance, achievement and exclusions?)
- complete PEP 2:
  - Review previous targets if appropriate
  - Complete brief summary of achievement
  - Set appropriate targets – bearing in mind issues that have risen during the meeting
- Check PEP 3 is updated and complete and set date for next PEP review
- Photocopy and distribute PEP forms

Please remember to send a copy to:

TOP TIPS

Top Tips for Social Workers and Designated Teachers

- Ensure you have gathered all the information you need before the meeting takes place
- Ensure young person has had the opportunity to complete a PEP 4 with the help of an adult before the meeting
- Always ensure you follow an agenda that includes the opportunity for both the young person and carer to air and discuss views and concerns
- Use PEP meetings as an opportunity to share information and clarify facts as well as make plans
- Fill in PEP 2 during the meeting – photocopy and distribute the forms at the end of the meeting if possible – this saves on admin follow up!
- Do not try to chair the meeting and record decisions on the form as well – It's best if one person chairs and another records
- Make sure clear, realistic and measurable targets are set for all pupils – review any previous targets before setting new ones
- Always ensure a copy of the forms is sent to Virtual School for LAC Team

More information on behaviour and exclusions is available in the 'Supporting good behaviour in schools.'

Attendance

- It is important to collect accurate information on attendance – try to get a percentage or number of sessions attended. Make sure this information is recorded on the PEP form. If the school provides a copy of their register, please make sure this is attached to PEP.
- Missed days are always a concern. Try to establish whether there is a pattern to absence

- Schools may ask questions about Welfare Call – if you have any questions about this service please contact Virtual School for LAC Team on 020 7364 6304

BACKGROUND INFORMATION

Background Information on Curriculum Pathways and Where PEPs Need to Take Place.

Attending PEP Meetings can be daunting and confusing. The following information may be of use to social workers

- pupils in care between the ages of three and sixteen require regularly updated Personal Education Plans
- from the ages of five to sixteen they will follow a National Curriculum and their progress is monitored and recorded according to their attainment in the different areas of that curriculum
- a pathway through the school system is divided into different Key Stages and pupils are expected to achieve certain levels of attainment at each stage

Age group	Name of Stage	Year/class	Expected average National Curriculum level for most pupils – but not all - ( by end of key stage)	Key Points
3-5	Foundation Stage	Nursery And Reception	The National Curriculum does not apply to this stage. Pupils follow a Foundation Stage Curriculum which focuses on their overall development and prepares them for more formal learning when they reach year one.	PEPs for pupils at this stage are recorded on an Early Years PEP form. This is because the curriculum is different to older pupils and teachers and school staff report on progress in different terms. See Early Years PEP for outline of Key areas of learning.
5- 7	Key Stage 1	Year 1 Year 2	Level 2	Most pupils are expected to be working at level 1 at the beginning of year 1. They are formally assessed at the end of year 2. Schools should be able to give you a clear explanation of the levels at which they are working and their strengths and weaknesses

Age group	Name of Stage	Year/class	Expected average National Curriculum level for most pupils – but not all - ( by end of key stage)	Key Points
7-11	Key Stage 2	Year 3 Year 4 Year 5 Year 6	Level 4	Each National Curriculum subject has a target level of skills knowledge and understanding that pupils should reach at the end of each key stage and schools should be able to report on progress throughout. Pupils will be formally tested in English, maths and science at the end of the Key Stage (Year 6)
11-14	Key Stage 3	(Secondary) Year 7 Year 8 Year 9	Level 5-6	Pupils are usually tested in English, maths and science at the end of the Key stage 3 (Year 9)
14-16	Key Stage 4	Year 10 Year 11	Most children take GCSEs or other national qualifications at the end of this Key stage (Year 11)	Statutory school leaving age is the end of Year 11 (regardless of when a pupil's sixteenth birthday occurs) and pupils need a PEP until then. YEAR 11 PEPS should happen in the first year of term wherever possible. This may mean bringing the date forward. Guidelines from the leaving care team state that pupils should have a pathway plan within three months of being allocated a personal adviser. To avoid duplication, social workers should invite PAs to Year 11 PEPs whenever possible, and liaise with the PA to ensure that by the end of Year 11 a PEP has been replaced by a Pathway Plan.

FACT SHEET PERSONAL EDUCATION PLANS

- It is a statutory requirement that all Children and Young People Looked After have a Personal Education Plan (PEP) within 20 days of coming into care or within 20 days of changing school
- Schools and Social Services are required to collaborate to ensure this happens
- Social workers are responsible for coordinating the procedure and ensuring that a PEP meeting is arranged
- A PEP should be reviewed (at least) every 6 months
- Ideally the information from a PEP should inform and/or be informed by other monitoring and review procedures (i.e Social Services Looked After Children Reviews, Annual Reviews of Statements, Individual Education Plan Meetings or Pastoral Support Plans).
- A Personal Education Plan does not replace the need for any of the above, but meetings can be combined if it is felt appropriate
- Information from PEP meetings should be recorded on PEP forms. An Early Years PEP form reflects the different curriculum followed by young children under five and should be used for pupils below statutory school age ( i.e in nursery and reception)
- It is important that all interested parties receive a copy of the completed PEP so that the plan can be translated into appropriate action
- The local authority has a duty to monitor, review and support the education of pupils in Care – It is therefore important that a copy of the completed PEP form is sent to the Virtual School for Looked After Children

Social workers should:

- ensure they are confident about PEP procedures. If they are not, They should consult the Educational Support Pack provided to each team by the Virtual School for Looked After Children team or contact the number below for further advice and guidance
- keep a copy of the child's PEP on file and ensure it is forwarded to any new educational establishment that the child attends
- act as any interested parent to ensure that educational provision and support for the child/young person is clearly and appropriately planned and recorded

Designated teachers should:

- prepare for the meeting by gathering information on the child/young person
- be prepared to review any previous targets and advise on new ones
- ensure they have clear and up to date information from social workers about issues such as contact addresses and telephone numbers (PEP 3)
- liaise with social workers and carers as appropriate, between PEP meetings

CONNEXIONS CAREERS SERVICE

Corporate Parent Statement

We provide a careers guidance service in schools, at Tower Hamlets College, at local Pupil Referral Units and with young people not in education, employment, or training (NEET).

Each school has an allocated Personal Advisor (Guidance) (PA). The PAs are qualified careers advisors and are experts in supporting and helping young people to think about themselves, their skills, qualities and how they learn best. The advisor will talk to the young person on an individual basis and help them to explore their interests and career ideas, and discuss the range of options available to them so that the young person can make informed decisions and plan for their future. Parents/carers or professionals can attend the careers interview with the consent of the young person.

The range of options and choices available to young people is vast and complex so talking to an expert can really support a young person to think through their ideas and help them successfully plan for their future.

How can Connexions Careers help me?

- a careers guidance interview is offered to looked after young people in Years 11, 12 and 13
- as part of the interview the young person will receive a careers action plan which outlines the young person's career ideas and how they can go about achieving these
- if a young person has a statement of educational needs the PA will support the young person from Year 9
- the PA will attend Year 9 Transitional Reviews for young people and will see the young person prior to the review to encourage them to start thinking about their future
- young people will then see the PA again in Year 11 and have a careers interview. This is a key stage and transition point for all young people to make decisions about what they want to do once they complete their GCSEs
- the PA will produce a careers action plan and a transitional plan (S139) for young people in Year 11 which outlines the young person's short term and long term goals, the young person's needs and the support they require to succeed at college, sixth form or at training
- PAs work very closely with a range of professionals including social workers to support the young person to move forward in their lives

6. The EPS will contribute to the Statutory Assessment process and will produce Psychological Advice within recommended time scales
7. The EPS will prioritise attendance at Annual Reviews of looked after children with Statements of Special Educational Need

PUPIL REFERRAL UNIT

Corporate Parent Statement

Tower Hamlets Pupil Referral Unit provides specialist education for students who have been referred from mainstream school because there have been serious problems around their behavior and/or attendance. Students from Year 7 to 11 on short term exclusion from mainstream school attend the behavior improvement programme, currently based at the Harpley site Tollet street.

Students from Year 7 to 10 (and in exceptional cases years 5 and 6) may also be referred to the Harpley inclusion support centre for a period of eight weeks, where students can gain the skills necessary for a successful return to mainstream education - either to their original school under a reintegration program (RIG) or to a different school in the borough via the fair access protocol (FAP). Some students in Year 10 may spend longer at Harpley and may then move on to one of three Year 11 centres, where they will stay for the academic year. The pupil referral unit also provides home tuition and a hospital tuition service.

Raising educational attainment is one of the main focuses at the Pupil Referral Unit. The curriculum is delivered through individual or small group tuition, and a range of qualifications are offered - including GCSEs. Part time accredited courses in practical subjects can be accessed through further education colleges in Years 10 and 11 and these can be continued on return to mainstream school. There is a large team of teaching assistants, learning mentors and outreach workers who support the students in their learning. There is a CAHMS link worker, a nurse and access to lifeline drugs advice workers. Outside agencies also provide stimulating experiences for students; Leyton Orient football coaching and Billingsgate fish cookery course can be accessed by our students for example. Drama and art groups have frequently been involved in projects bases at the PRU.

Tower Hamlets Pupil referral unit was found to be 'good with outstanding features', by OFSTED inspectors in September 2010.

Tower Hamlets Pupil Referral Unit aims to ensure that all decisions around looked after young people should be made with a view to achieving the outcomes that a responsible and loving parent would wish for their child. This involves good communications and joined up thinking between agencies and at times across boroughs. A pro-active approach is required, where, regardless of pressures on placements or concerns associated with the young person's potential behavior, the interests of the child are paramount at all times.
